- In a first-entry undergraduate program
- A Canadian citizen
- Expect to complete your McMaster undergraduate degree in the Spring of 2021

Application Instructions - Graduate Stream

Applications for the graduate stream are due at 11:59 pm EST on Monday, March 30, 2020 at wilsonleader@mcmaster.ca. Applications received after that time will not be considered.

Graduate Award Eligibility

To hold the graduate award, you must be:

- A full-time McMaster graduate student for the 2020-2021 academic year (you need not be a McMaster student the year you apply)
- In any graduate degree program, in any year (Note: MD/PhD students may only hold the award in years in which they have no MD program obligations)
- A Canadian citizen
- Expect to complete your degree work no sooner than Spring 2021
- Able to balance approximately 15 hours of time commitment to the WLSA program and activities

As the award involves a time commitment, applicants who move forward in the selection process will be asked to provide a letter of support from their supervisor or, if a supervisor is unavailable, their department’s graduate chair.

All applicants should submit the following to wilsonleader@mcmaster.ca:

1. Cover sheet
2. Personal statement

3. 1 letter of reference (unless nominated)
4. Unofficial transcript

Applicants who advance in the process will be asked to submit a CV or resume.

The cover sheet and personal statement are submitted together as a single PDF or Word file saved as: "Last name, First name – WLSA Undergrad 2020" or "Last name, First name – WLSA Grad 2020". The subject line of the email submission should be the same.

Letters of reference are submitted directly by their authors as PDF or Word files saved as: "Applicant last name, Applicant first name – Reference last name," and the subject line of the email submission should be the same.

Cover sheet

The cover sheet is simply an administrative tool. The selection committee will not read additional information (e.g., quotes, expressions of thanks), so please refrain from including any information other than:

1. Last name, given name (preferred name)
2. Award applied for (undergraduate or graduate)
3. Email (McMaster address if possible)
4. Preferred phone number
5. Country of citizenship
6. McMaster student number (if possible)
7. Current university, program and degree
8. Anticipated faculty, program and degree for 2020-2021
9. Date you started or will start your degree at McMaster University
10. Expected completion date of your degree at McMaster University
11. Significant time commitments that you plan to hold during 2020-2021 (e.g. internships, co-ops, etc.), and the approximate hours/week they will involve
12. Cumulative GPA (for applicants to the undergraduate award only)

Personal Statement

1. The personal statement should be approximately one to two pages, single-spaced.
2. The statement need not be in academic language, and can draw on personal experiences. Reviewers are looking for candidates who demonstrate honesty and integrity, passion and compassion, courage and vision, a commitment to others and a love for learning.
3. Your statement should explain how the award will fit in your trajectory. Why does it make sense for you to commit time and effort to the Wilson Leadership Scholar Award? For applicants to the graduate stream, outline how your academic and other interests relate to one or more of Democracy, the Economy, Education, Healthcare, the Impacts of Technology, or Public Policy – all in a Canadian context.

4. Reviewers will use the personal statement to decide whether or not you will be offered an interview, so make it count.

Letters of Reference

1. If you received notification from wilsonleader@mcmaster.ca that you were nominated for the Wilson Leadership Scholar Award, that nomination will serve as your reference letter. There is otherwise no advantage to being nominated, or disadvantage to applying without a nomination.
2. You can use a non-academic reference. Choose a writer who can speak honestly to your strengths, leadership capacity, what you can gain from and contribute to the WLSA, and your character.
3. Referees should not be relatives, close friends or peers.
4. Letters submitted by applicants for their referees will not be considered. Referees must submit letters directly to wilsonleader@mcmaster.ca.

Next Steps

While the selection process is lengthy, please do not be intimidated by it. Previous applicants have told us that the application process itself added to their understanding of themselves and of their goals.

Selected applicants will be sent an email after applications have been reviewed, inviting them to complete an online interview; applicants who are not advancing will be advised of the decision. Because applications will be reviewed as they are received, applicants may receive a response soon after the due date. Please check the inbox and spam folder of the email address you have listed on your cover letter.

The online interview consists of a short series of questions that applicants respond to via video. Detailed instructions for recording responses will be included in the email invitation, system requirements are basic, and no videography/editing experience is required. The online interview may also include a timed written response. Applicants will be given approximately one week from the time when the email invitation is sent to complete their online interview.

All applicants will be notified as to whether they have been selected for the semi-final interviews, likely to be held in early March for the undergraduate award and late May for the graduate award. Final interviews will take place likely in early April (undergraduate) and late June (graduate). Up to three candidates will be selected from each stream for the award.

Due to the volume of applications anticipated, feedback on applications and interviews will not be provided to any applicant.
